

Remainder Race Division Games

©www.thisreadingmama.com

Want a fun way to practice division? You got it! Just solve the division problem on the card you draw, and then move the same number of spaces on the game board as the number in your remainder. But watch out! Some problems don't have remainders. That means you move zero spaces!

Learners can use the Remainder Race Recording Page on p. 15 to record their work.

For 2-6 players. Print off* and cut out the 2-digit and/or 3-digit division cards ahead of time. Each player also needs their own recording sheet, a pencil, and a marker to place on the game board.

*Print onto cardstock to make cards hard to see through.

Directions: All players start on Start. The first player picks a card from the top of the pile and solves the division problem. What's the remainder? Move that number of spaces on the board. Players take turns and continue playing in this manner. The player who gets to the End first, is the winner!
